Algonquin College Around the World

To kick off Canada's International Development Week (February 1-7, 2009) the college's International Education Centre (IEC) is hosting The Algonquin College Forum on International Development. The forum will provide students, staff and faculty with an increased understanding of International Development activities at the college, opportunities for involvement, and new resources available for enhancing knowledge of international development in the classroom.

The forum will include six college employees who will share their experiences working on development projects abroad in Egypt, India, Tanzania, China, Serbia and the Philippines.
